

6 Resources Every Actor

MUST HAVE

Actors Access – Easily submit your headshot & resume to casting for student films, independent films and theater. Tip: Submissions with a video link go to the top of the list.

Casting About – Find who's casting what & when Tip: Easily print address labels directly from the site making mailings easier. Grab your 1 week trial www.castingabout.com/mentoring

IMDbpro – The most comprehensive resource for people in the entertainment industry. Tip: Gives access to detailed agent/manger contact info and casting office phone numbers, you don't need big credits to set up a profile.

Casting Networks – The other big submission site for commercials industrials and print Tip: Be ready with an account, this is how commercial agents submit their actors for auditions.

Twitter Account – If you're holding out on getting an account the time has come Tip: Connect in real time with casting directors, producers and directors on your target list.

Workshop Guru – Easiest way to stay on top of your workshop schedule. Tip: If you are taking workshops, you can find your target list easily and stay on your budget.

www.MentoringForActors.com